

National Museum of African American History & Culture National Association of University Women Headquarters

This summer I visited the Washington DC and there were two things on my bucket list, visit the National Museum of African American History & Culture and the National Association of University Women headquarters.

Although, the headquarters was closed for the month of July due to the National convention I was able to view the beautiful landscaping, and see the official historical landmark plaque displayed in the front yard and take pictures of the brick lined driveway where I was able to find some of our branch member's bricks.

Another highlight of my DC trip was my visit to the National Museum of African American History and Culture where one of our Founders Mary Church Terrell was displayed in two separate exhibits at the museum, I felt such a sense of pride in being a member of the NAUW organization and I encourage everyone to make it your mission to visit these two iconic and historical sites.

Written by Paula May.